
CHECK MATE

MATE

SPECIAL DELIVERY~!! ~ THEME OF THE PROSPITIAN ROYAL COURT'S DEAR SWEET PRECIOUS PARCEL MISTRESS

Musician: tsundereCat [TC]
I figured a lot of people were going to make themes for post-prototyped PM, so I opted to make one for pre-exile PM to balance it out.

Artist: Arkin (ectobiologist)
Immediately thought of her delivering Jade's package for John! I also love drawing carapacians, PM will always hold a special little place in my heart no matter which version of her it is.

References:
Toby Fox - HEY EVERY ! • Koji Kondo - Ground BGM (Super Mario World) • George R. Poulton & W. W. Fosdick - Aura Lee special delivery ~!!

NEVER GET TO HEAVEN. . . ~ BATTLE THEME OF THE MUCH BEHATED DERSITE BASTARD

Musician: Cass Preston (witchscadence)
Imagine if jack noir, but OFF remaster. Do you see the vision?

Artist: bunnysoryu i wanted to do a mirrored perspective of the art for the matching PM track!

References:
tsundereCat [TC] - Special Delivery~!! ~ Theme of the Prospitian Royal Court's Dear Sweet Precious Parcel Mistress • The Virginians - Choo Choo Blues • Aileen Stanley & Billy Murray - You'll Never Get To Heaven With Those Eyes

NEVER GET TO HEAVEN...

FLATRATE

Musician: St. Veronika
Make through the waste, shod rags of sand o'er long time-lost lea;
parcel in hand e'er twelve-ninety fee, deliv'rance in haste.

Artist: ricemilk
I'm so glad I was able to make this song's track art. It's such a banger. My first concept was PM as a modern post-woman, or more like, the cartoon version of one? Then, I read Veronika's wonderful commentary, listened to the finished version, and it was clear I HAD TO put PM back into her rags, as well as replace the metropolitan jungle with a desert. I thought the dynamic pose is enough to convey the fresh feel of this song. I think the colors help a bit too. A few people helped me choose. My friend called them "jojo-esque" which made me laugh.

References:
The Beatles - Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band - Reprise

SHARPHATE (OF BUREAUCRACY)

Musician: gravitygauntlet

Veronika will always have more EDM sauce than me, so I kept the Detroit influence but made it more sludgy. I think Toby Fox was listening to sludge metal working on Cherubim, too: does the intro to Korn - All In the Family remind you of anything?

Artists: contrairyart and gravitygauntlet

I was inspired by the flowers on the "Sgt. Pepper's" album to use my Butterfly Brush, which is supposed to look like the flowers.

References

St. Veronika - Flatrate • aivi & surasshu - White Diamond • Lyn Collins - Think (About It) • Kalibration - Red Sucker, Stride, Upward Movement • Erik Scheele - Walk-Stab-Walk • Toby Fox - Black

2026

IVORY DELIVERANCE

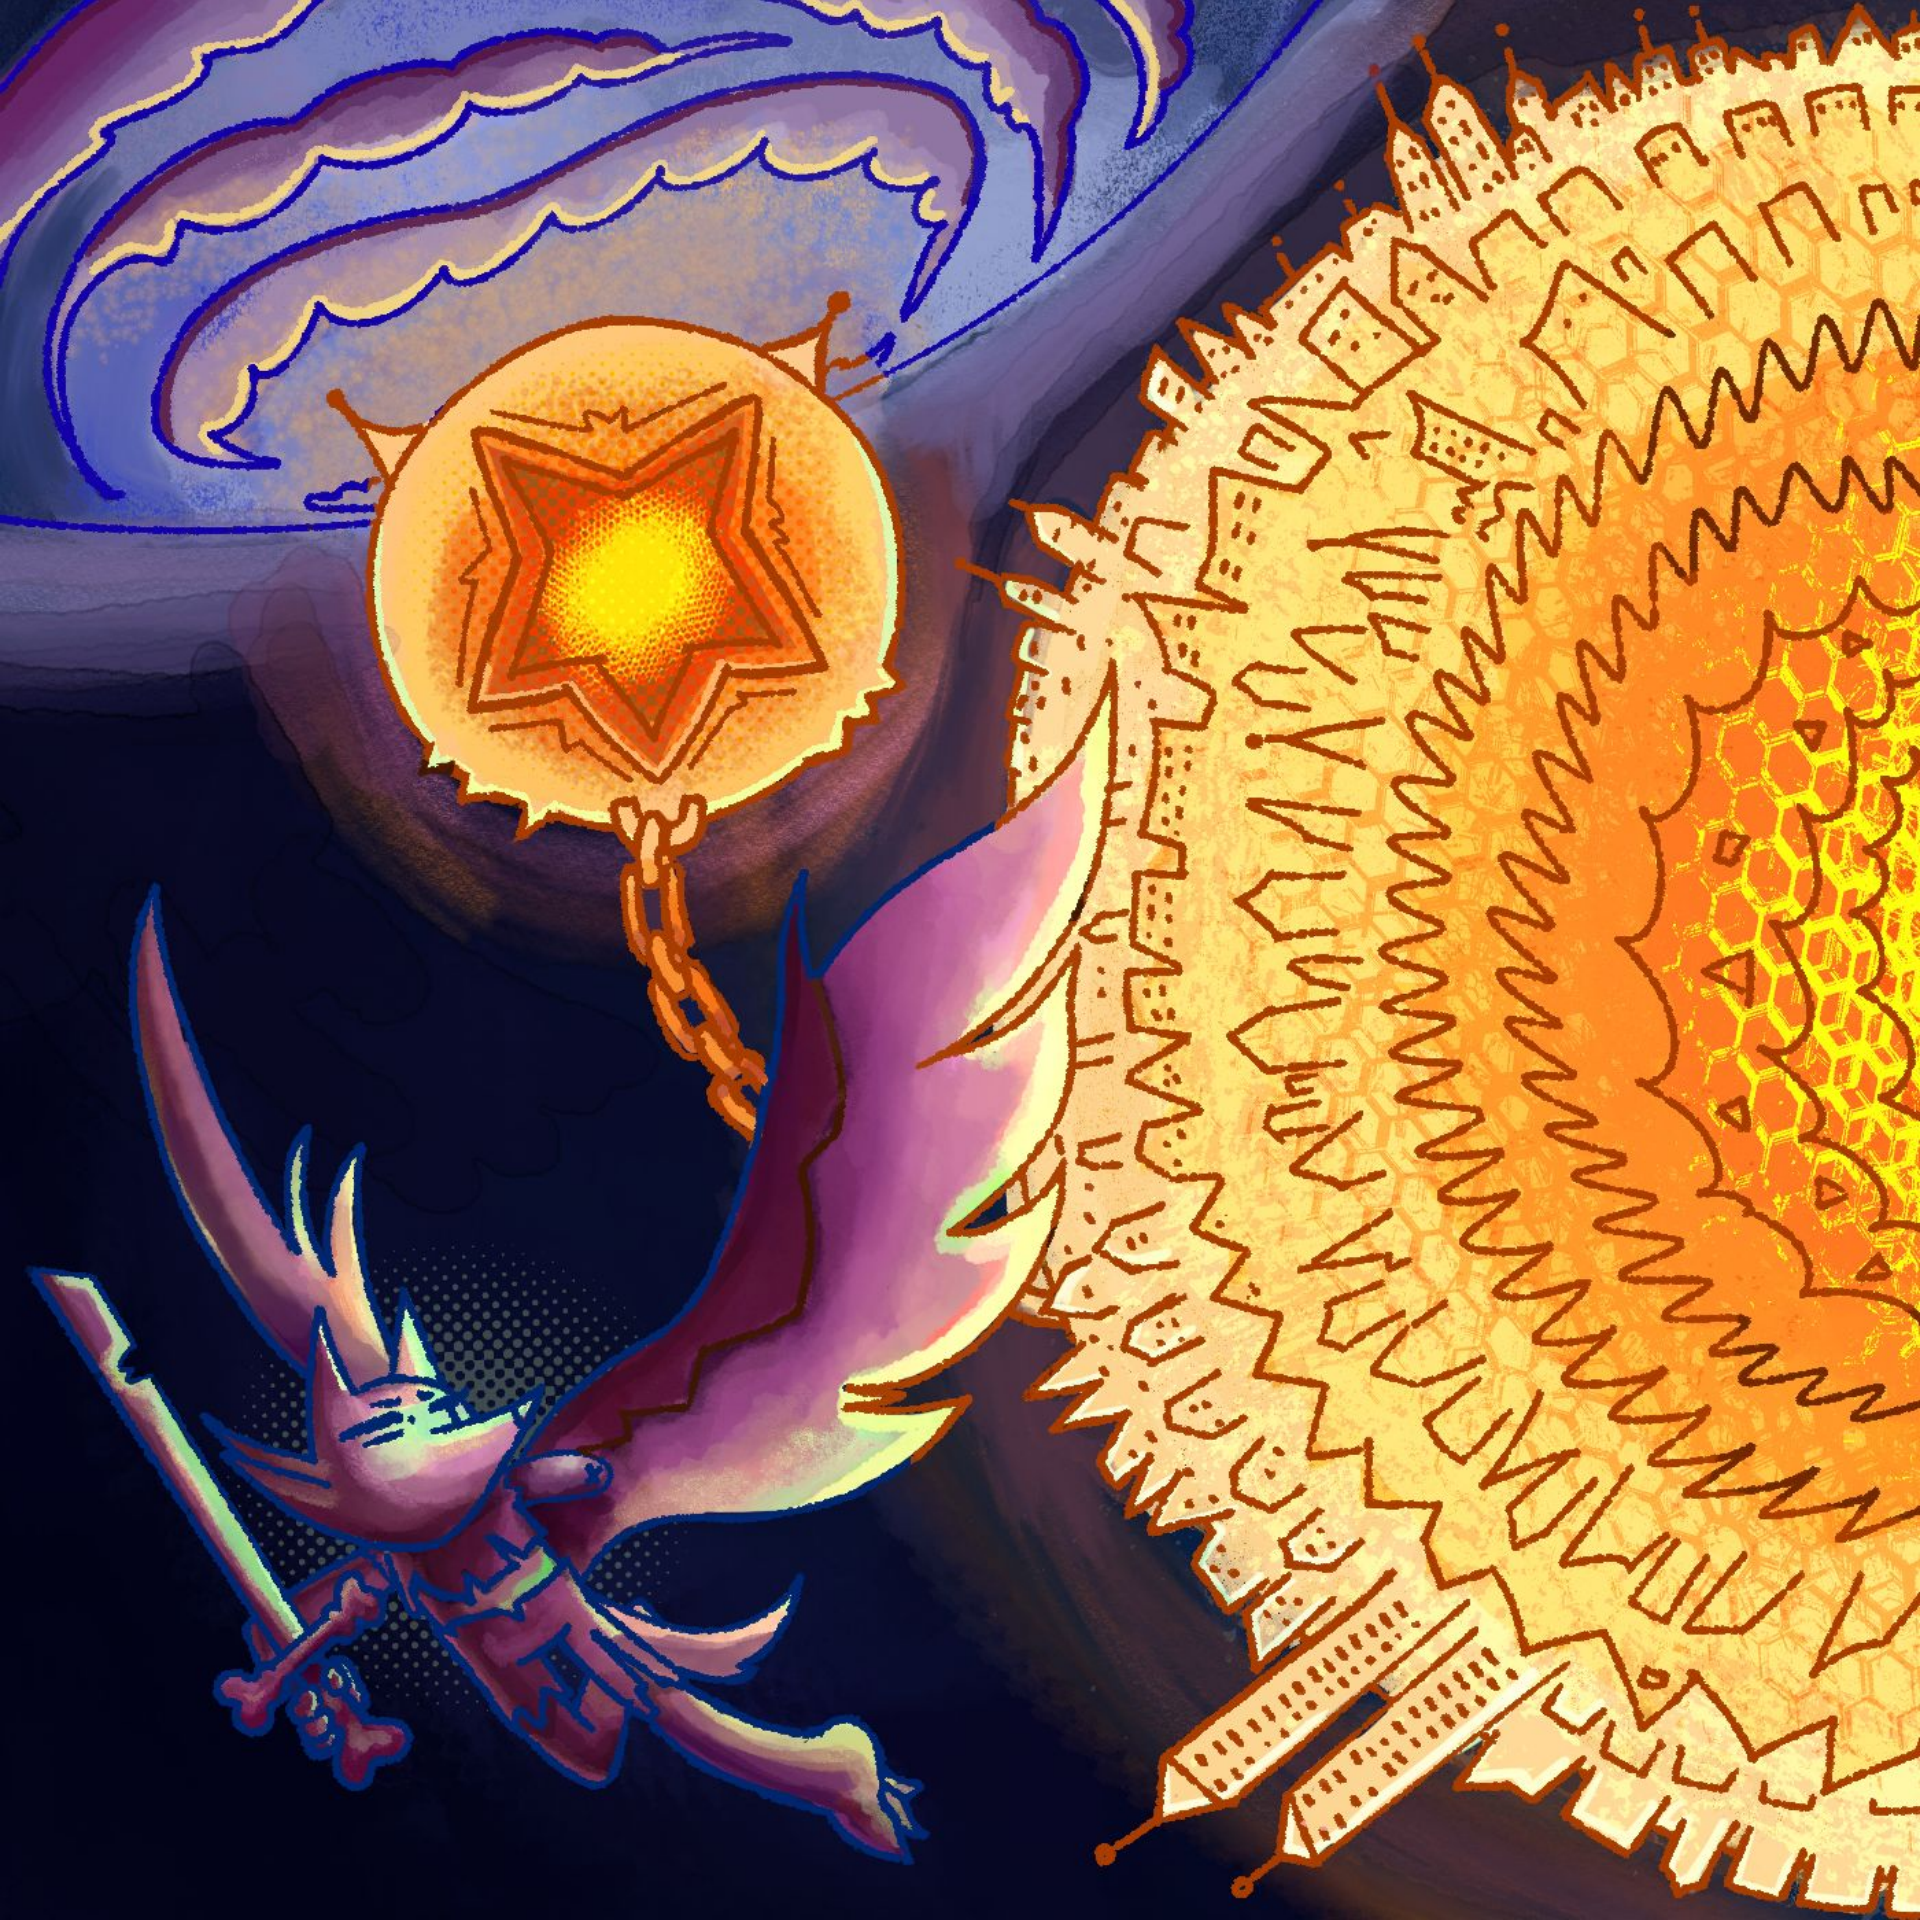

Musician: bould

Artist: Allahrts

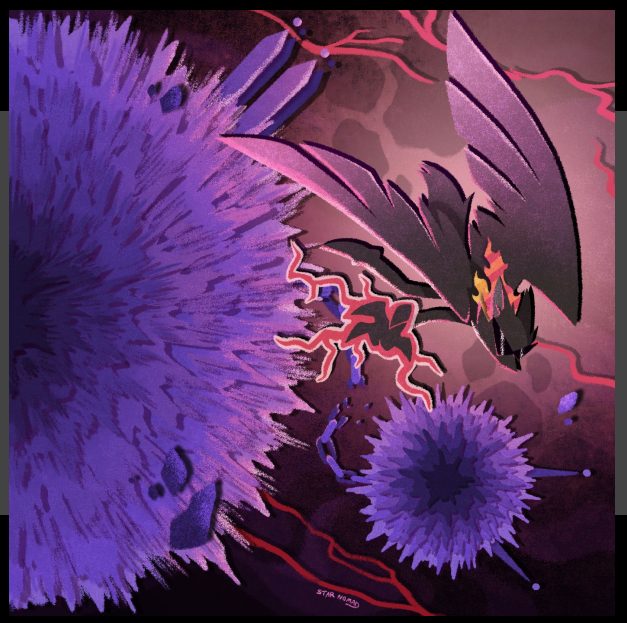

Oh boy, this has got to be one of the more convoluted art pieces I've made, but maybe that's why I love it so much ha. When I first listened to this song it was in a call with starnomad, and immediately she realized that we should do a dual art piece together of PM and Jack. Starnomad was the one who came up with the rough concept sketch too. When working on this piece I wanted it to fit with the musics tone, which meant I redid this piece many times. To me the undertones of the music sounded both tragic and optimistic at the same time. Like someone who's seen the worst of the worst, yet still keeps moving forward.

References:

Toby Fox - White

EBONY EXTRAVAGANCE

Musician: Kanishka

SIKE!

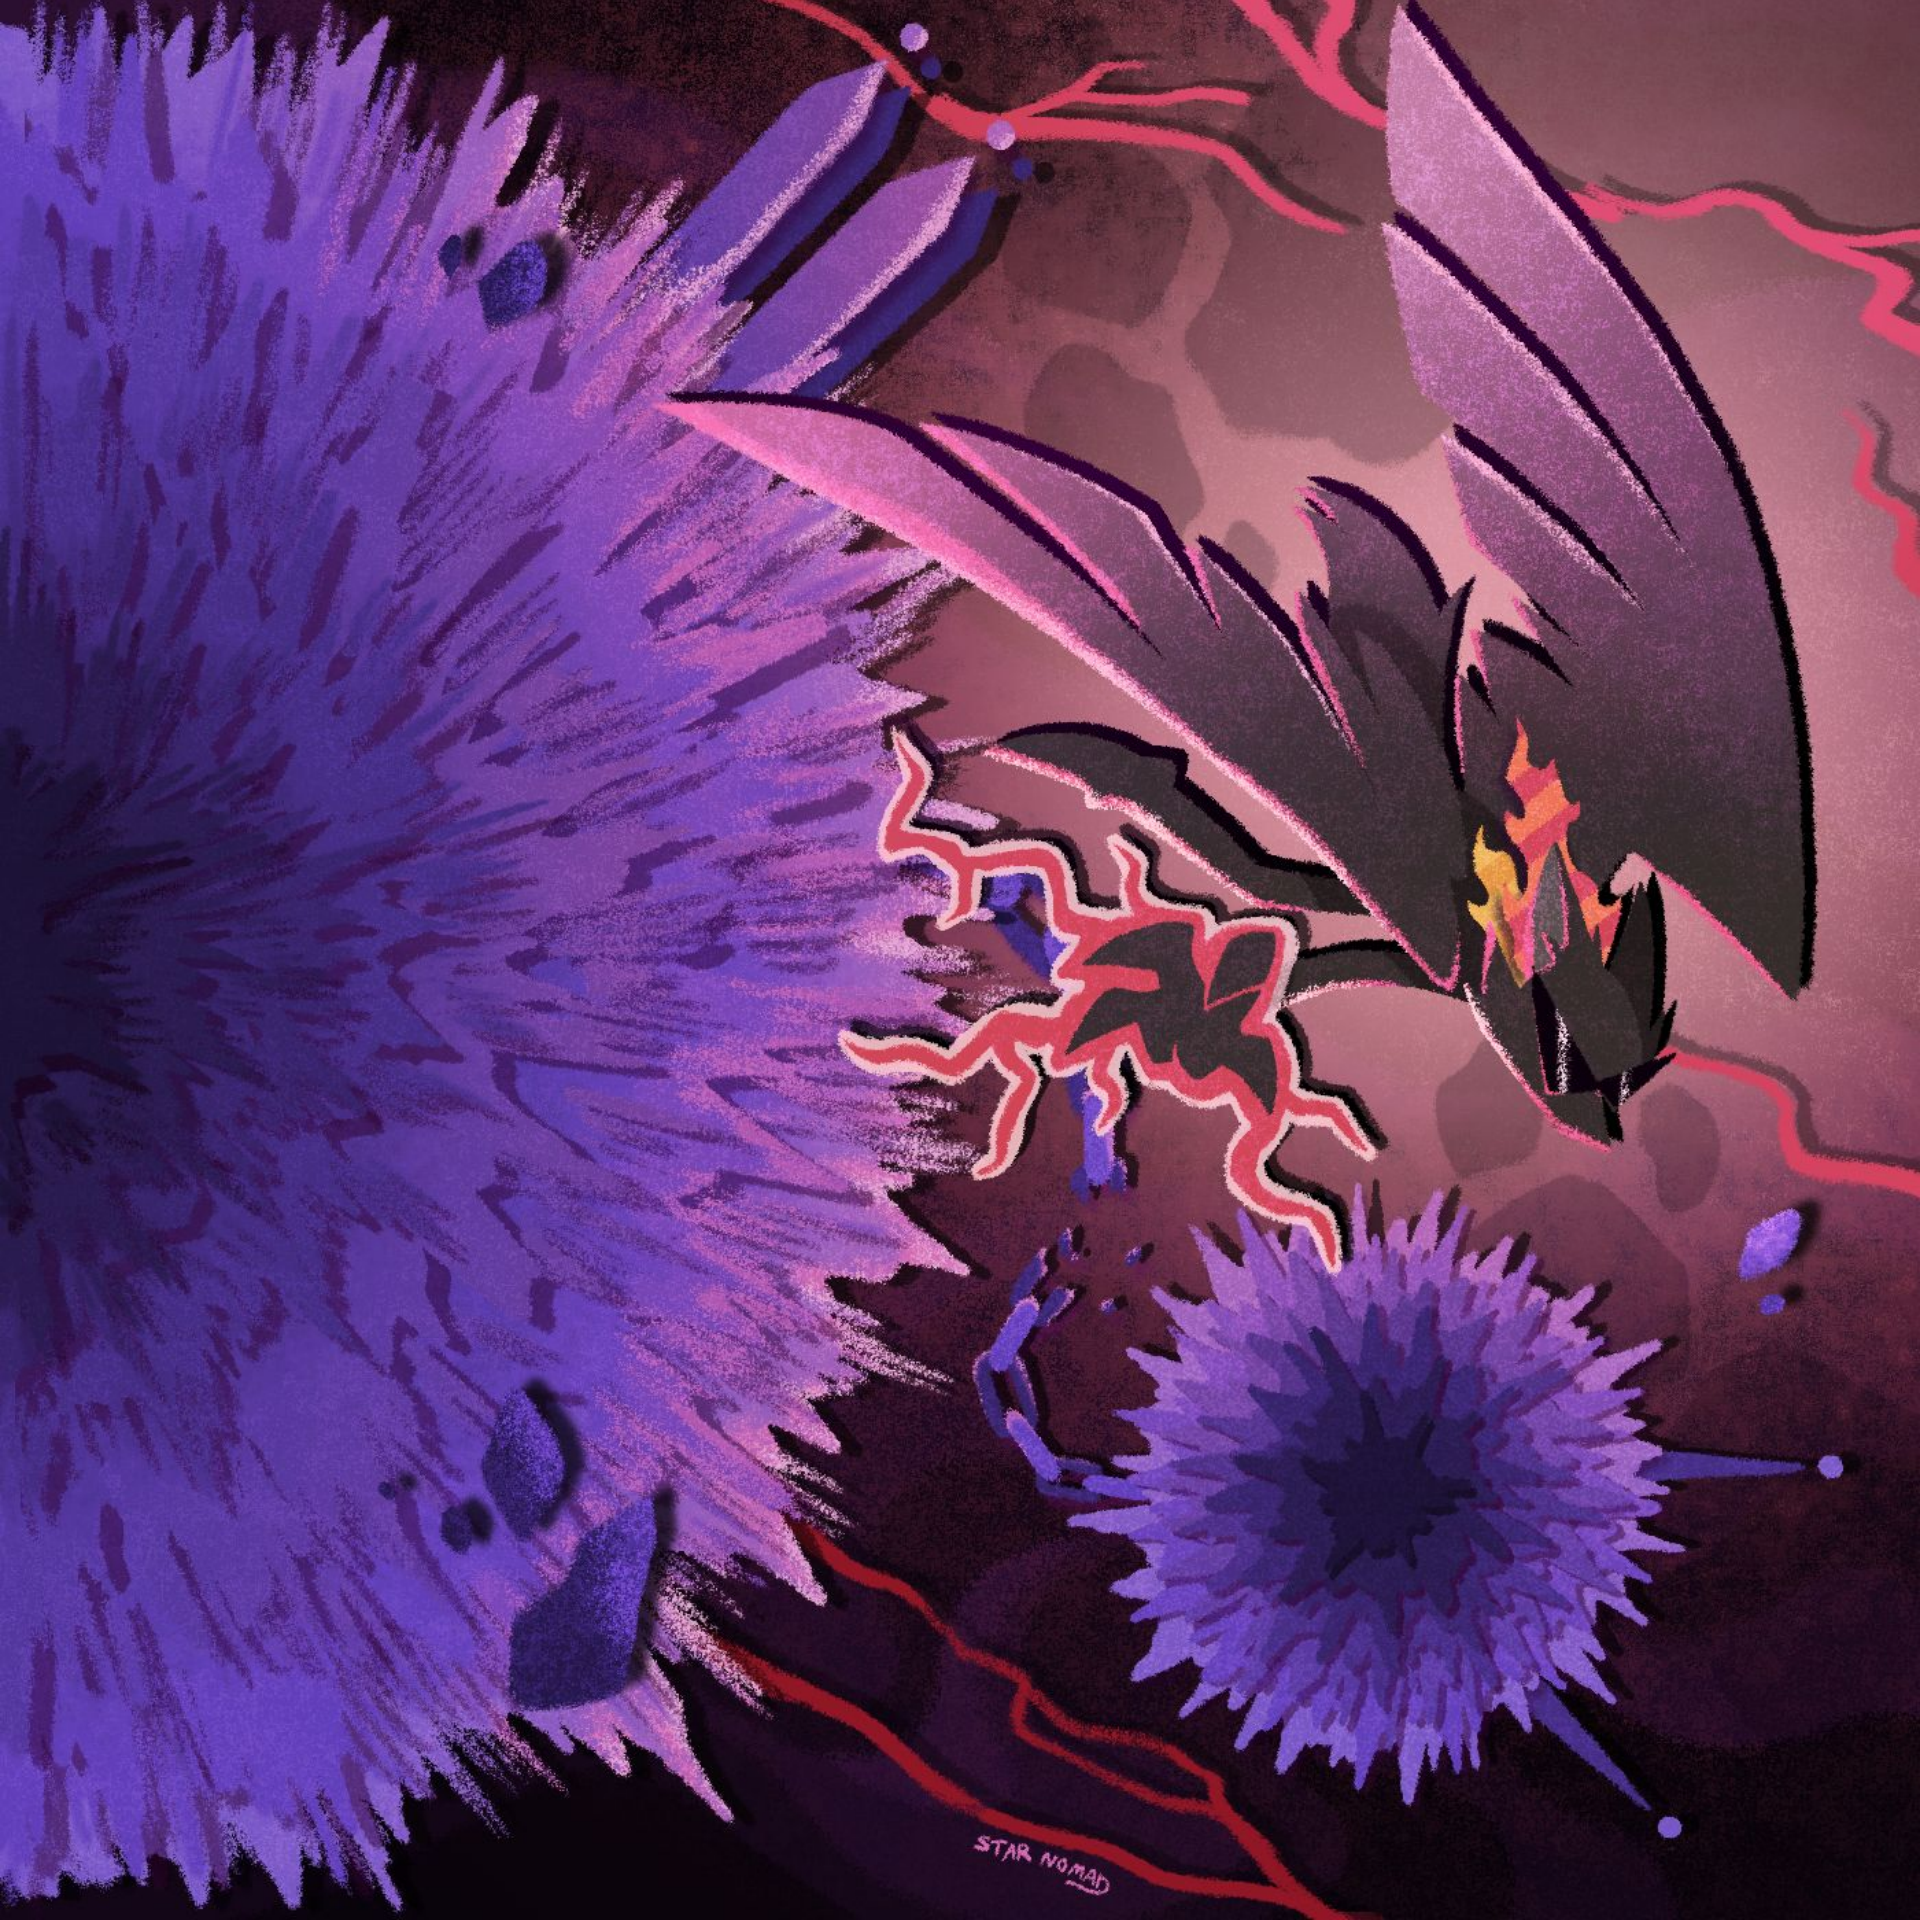

Got you good, didn't I? I'm sure I did.

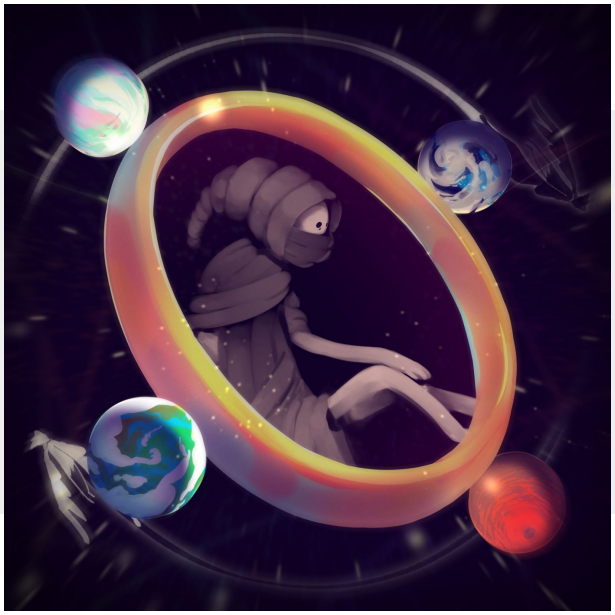

Artist: star-nomad

Jack Noir is one of my favorite Homestuck characters ever and I feel like he seriously gets slept on. Like come on, he's got such a sick design and is pretty much the first antagonist in the comic, and I feel like no one ever talks about him. So I was super excited to make art of him! I decided to do a sort of paper cutout-esque piece, like paper theater, and while I didn't have too much time to make it, I think it turned out pretty well. Plus, when you put it next to allahrts' PM artwork for Ivory Deliverance, it makes one big art piece which is like, pretty cool.

References

bould - Ivory Deliverance • Toby Fox - Octoroon Rangoon

STAR NOMAD

RAIN, SNOW, HEAT, GLOOM

Musician: cosmoptera
Lo-fi beats to deliver mail to.

Artist: Awkward

RED GLOW DEAD BLOOM

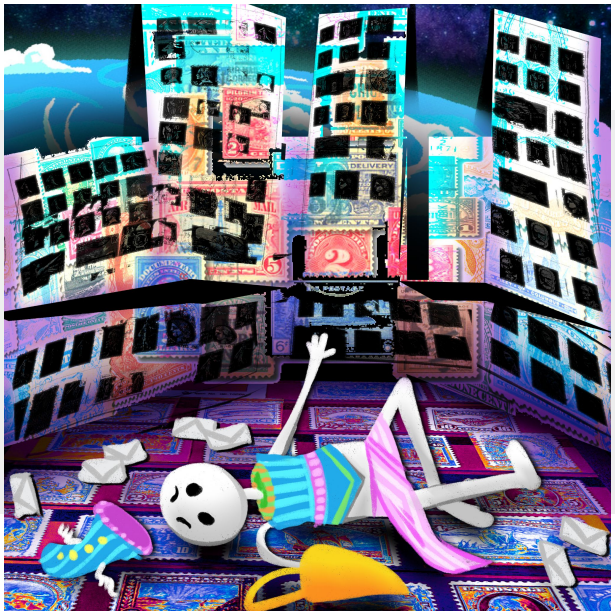

Musician: Circlejourney
Hi-fi beats to behead monarchs to.

Artist: SelanPike
I had dreams about higanbana flowers after doing this one

References
cosmoptera - Rain, Snow, Heat, Gloom

STAMP COLLECTING

Musician: Ucklin
I wanted to make something both somewhat cozy and unsettling, to represent how PM's life-as-usual was already an esoteric construct! Additionally, though it doesn't loop continuously, I designed it as a track that could loop without becoming too repetitive-- Each part of the song is a variation on the same motif, but in the third and fourth repetition, it is somewhat disguised by being sampled and then used as a bassline.

Artist: Griff

DELIVERY
JAIL
US POSTAGE

HEAD HUNTING

Musician: St. Veronika

If you've ever cut your way through a study felt- one of the kinds you get at the bougie arts 'n crafts store that sells the stuff made by a family specialized in the craft for five generations and up-marked three or five times past regular retail value despite the fact it's still only felt, not the cheap dollar store stuff for kiddies who don't know or need better or the rag at Michaels meant to fool the undiscerning fool who fancies themself a discerning non-fool on felted matters- you already kind of know what it's like to cut through the paunchy green necks of one of these lunks. 'Course, no felt you can buy'll coat your cutting implement of choice and the surrounding scenery in cherry-red candied blood, or provide a cardboard-roll spine to catch on if you go limp-wristed mid-swing. And it certainly won't provide a heady 'thunk' as the dimwits dome hits the ground, a thunk that would be cringeworthy if it were a real head; if you could muster even the tiniest amount of respect for the pestilentially verdant goon, or if it was still, you know, attached between their shoulders. Really, you ought to be surprised at just how easily it is to make a training dummy for just this purpose: really, the dollar store stuff's fine for the job, and it's not like a cardboard tube is difficult to pilfer from the back of some department store, especially during the holidays when they're presumably going through rolls and rolls of wrapping paper wrapping up gifts for the dopes who can't be bothered to do it themselves, to do the bare minimum for the season: really, it's not much more than wrapping a few layers of the fabric around a center rod of pulpy paper, roughly in contour with the silhouette of the body- these lime-shaded pricks barely follow any rules of anatomy recognizable from a textbook or even basal observation of your fellow man, you don't need to get that close- then finish off the jobs with a gaudy hat (preferably stolen from the homeless for that extra bit of misery) and stuff the topper with rocks. There you have a decently-accurate replica of the buffoons for use in multitude ways: consider training your sabre arm and technique on them; they make for convenient pin-cushions for those of you so inclined to tailoring; a fantastic punching bag, though mind that you don't punch into the rocks, or otherwise upset the dummy such that the hat (and rocks) fall on you; lovely gift to wrap up and present to a heist team member, or some gal you're sweet on, or to the tyyerp behind the .

Artist: Monckat

References

Ucklin - Stamp Collecting • Toby "Radiation" Fox - Ballad of Jack Noir, Liquid Negrocity • St. Veronika - Liquid Noir

THE MAIL (NEVER FAILS)

Musician: Rainy
I tried to make a silly but heroic JRPG character theme for PM but I got something a bit more serious sounding instead. I think it still works since she's VERY serious about the mail and you should be too

Artist: ricemilk
PM is such an underrated character so I was super excited about this project. I've gotten into needle-felting a while ago and decided it'll be the perfect oppurtunity to get out of my comfort zone and make something fresh and special, as my own art skills became rusty. I think it balances out the heroism and the quite cute nature of the carapacians. My original sketch for this song was far too bleak and just didn't fit the vibe. I unknowingly created kind of an inversion of the comic by painting the gothic cathedrals and photobashing PM herself. I had been hesitating through the whole process but the support of my friends and the great reception from the team assured me it was worth it.

References
Buzinkai and Michael Guy Bowman - Explore • David Ko and Toby Fox - Wacky Antics

THE ACE (NEVER MISSES)

Musician: Levc

Artist: SelanPike
persona? in MY art? it's more likely than you think

References
Rainy - The Mail (Never Fails)

Shoot
Skill StaB Substances
R2
FILL 'EM WITH MIDNIGHT GAUGE FULL!

PAPER TRAIL

Musician: Jebb
Listen. I wanted to do the PM/Jack album sooooo badly, but when it finally got greenlit and the time came around to make the PM track, i kinda fumbled around for a while. This is the end result of me just saying "yeah sure whatever this will do". For a track that's less than 2 minutes long i took a really long time to make it because i just did not feel like it for some reason. But hey, at least i finished it!
I wanted this track to feel and sound like the start of some big new adventure, with PM walking orderly towards her goal of delivering the next piece of mail in her bag. And also, uh. The structure and vibe of this track are very much taken directly from "New Adventure" from A Hat In Time's soundtrack. Like, listen to it, it's horrendously close. At some point while making this i realised that what i was making was just said track and went "screw it" and took what worked from it wholesale while adding a little bit of my own spin on it. A little bit.

Artist: RadzCatz

PAPER TRAIL

BLOOD ON THE SUITS

Musician: Cecily Renns

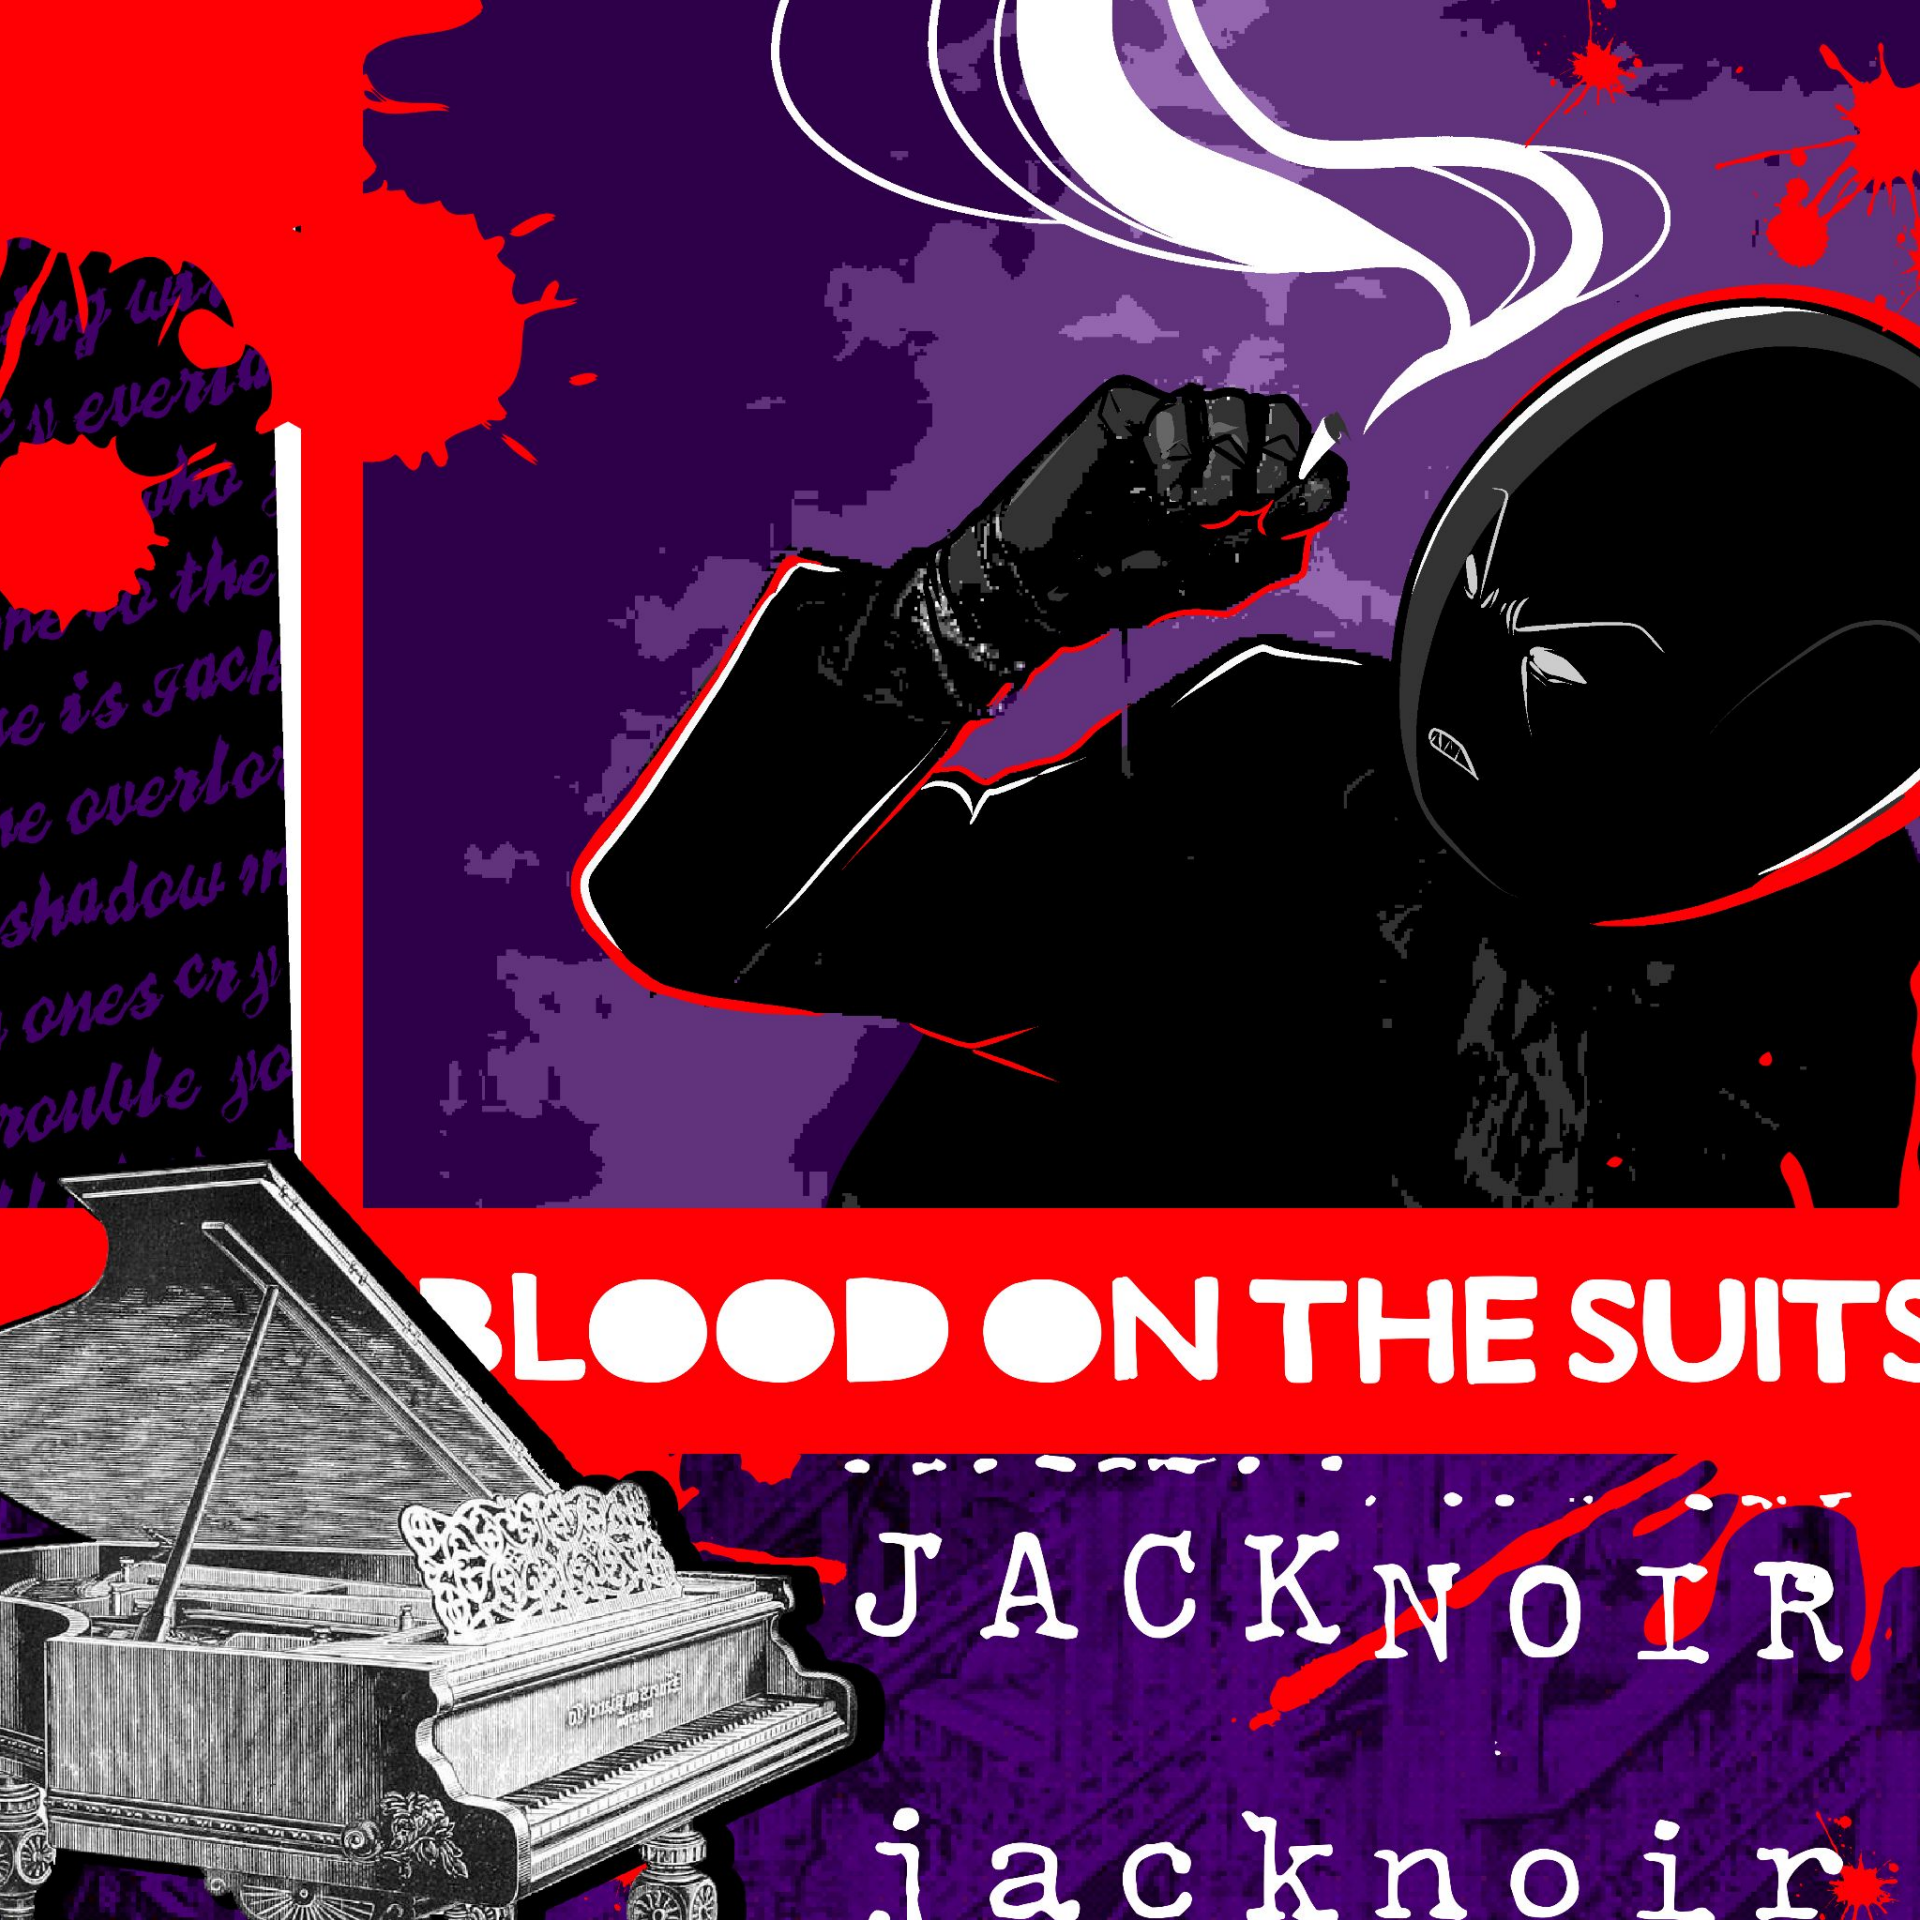

Initially, I wasn't sure if I had a good idea for a song in this album. But then I had a really good one: What if Jack had a really edgy sounding, emo post-hardcore song? Since that guy is basically an edgelord already. And then I heard Jebb's initial demo for his song, so I got to work on this one. At first I wanted vocals but I think it sounds pretty good without them, actually. The bands I was listening to while composing this was At the Drive-In and Hail to the Sun.

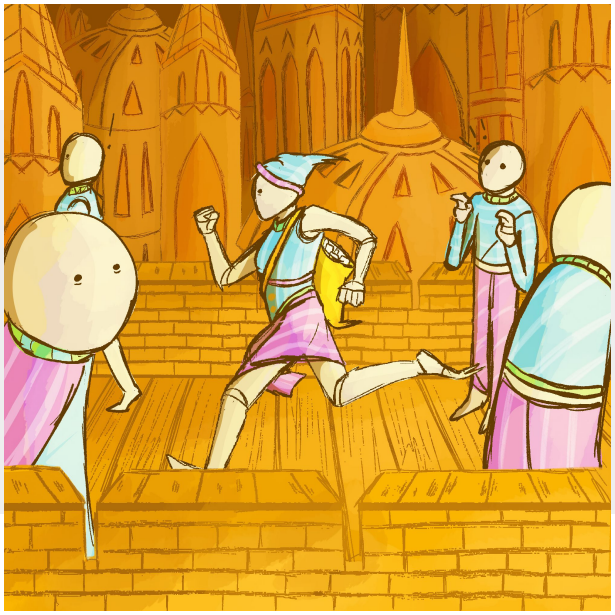

Artist: SelanPike

I like the sort of collaged, photocopy-esque look of local band fliers back in the day, so I tried to do something similar here. But with a few more colors than you'd get from the average Xerox, I suppose.

References

Jebb - Paper Trail • Toby Fox - Liquid Negrocity

BLOOD ON THE SUITS
JACKNOIR
jacknoir

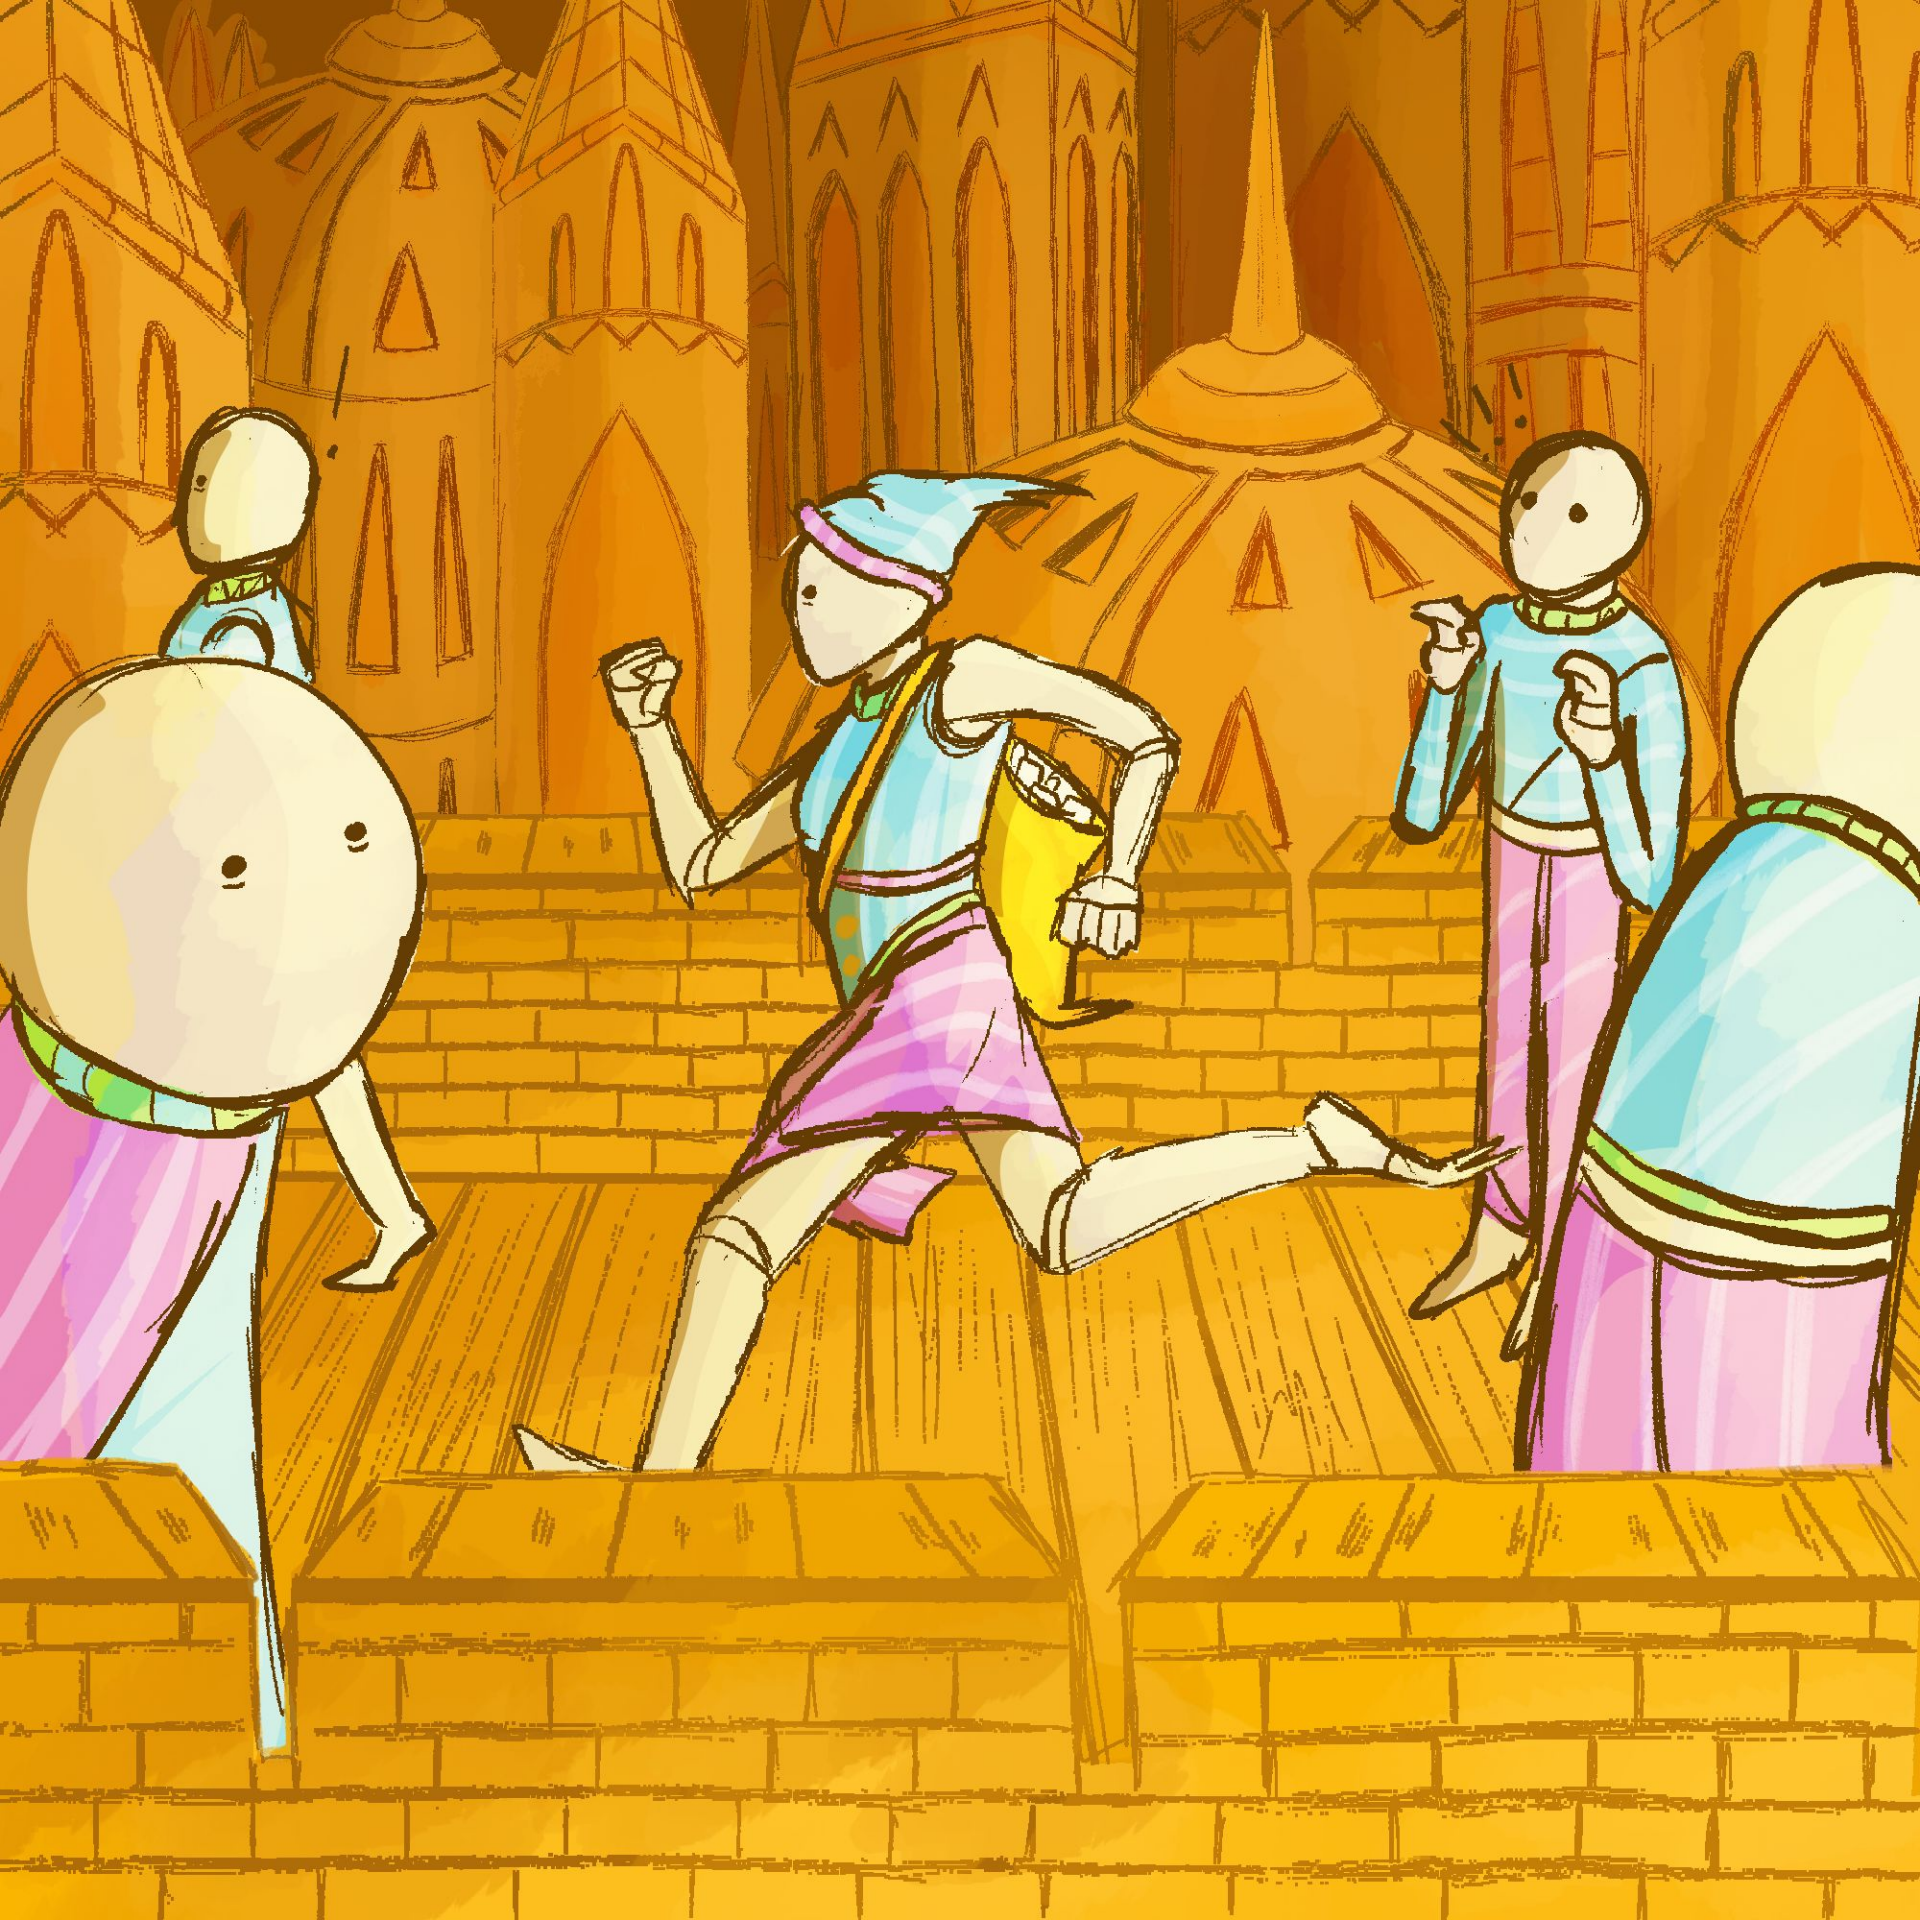

ERRAND GIRL

Musician: Kanishka
Tried to make something upbeat and jovial for a change.

Artist: enderslime
I've never drawn Prospit before. I usually love to photobash backgrounds, which would have been perfect for Prospit, but I wanted to try drawing it instead. I employed some very basic watercolor washes for lighting, and I really like how the end result looks. It's light and airy, like how I imagine being on Prospit feels. Light and airy, but still very busy. Lots to do!

References
Kanishka - Pipe Dream • Toby Fox - White • Alex Rosetti - Unsheath'd • Malcolm Brown - Litrichean Rioghail • Luigi Denzo and Peppino Turco - Funiculì Funiculà

HIT-MAN

Musician: Rainy

I felt that to contrast the constantly shifting nature of Errand Girl, i needed to write something with a very firm sense of groove without sacrificing the quirky feel of the original. I settled on doing some faux jazz fusion in 5/8 because I thought it would work for Jack's gangster persona, Spades Slick.

Artist: enderslime

Same commentary + Jack Noir hates his life

References

Kanishka - Errand Girl • Erik Scheele - Walk-Stab-Walk

MAILTIME SYMPHONY

Musician: casualclassical
This piece is styled like the first movement of a classical symphony, in sonata-allegro form.

Artist: piskomil
This song immediately made me think of orchestra and ballet, and how eefective it would be to deliver letters while doing pirouettes.

References
Nick Balaban and Michael Rubin - Mailtime • Ed Welch - Roll Call

Matinee Symphony Classical

MAILTIME BLUESY

Musician: (wished to remain anonymous)

Artist: ifer

I wanted to depict Jack in his Agent facet, playing the piano while surrounded by piles of mail and forms that he's ignoring in favour of playing the piano. I depicted him in my xeno style, with just the slightest spiralling on the rings above his neck and below his waist to indicate his uniform a the time. Before the Queen ruined it in honour of John's harlequin doll.

I had to use 3d models to get all the posing and lines and perspective right, but the shading is allll me baby. As is the xeno!Jack model to begin with. Trying to decide how Jack was visually distinct from CD and DD (who i'd already made models for) was interesting. I ended up making him one segment shorter than DD and one taller than CD, and having both his waist joint and the cutout for his rear leg reminiscent of his signature suit. I think it turned out well.

References

casualclassical - Mailtime Symphony

Mailtime
Bluesy
ifw 2026

HOMO HOMINI LUPUS

Musicians: Rainy • cosmoptera • bould • jebb

Artists: ricemilk • Arkin • RadzCatz • bould ricemilk: I'm so honored to not only work on this fantastic track, but also to have people come out and collab with me on the art. They did a wonderful job, it was so exciting seeing my idea gradually come to life like this, with everyone's unique skills and style applied. I also got to exit my comfort zone while working on the background. Thank you for this oppurtunity, and doing a great job!

References
Tensei - Heir of Grief • Toby Fox - Liquid Negrocity • Tensei - Cascade (Beta) • bould - Ivory Deliverance • Team Dogfight - Dogfight • Jebb - Paper Trail • Rainy - The Mail (Never Fails) • Buzinkai and Michael Guy Bowman - Explore • Ucklin - Stamp Collecting

